The Taiwan SecuTech 2001 security show, 5/5/01-7/05-01

Text and photos by Damian Damjanovski

The Taipei World Trade Centre was the selected venue for the Secutech 2001 International Security Trade Expo, and few could think of a better location for a security expo that has become one of if not the focal trade show for both international, and local buyers, sellers, manufacturers and distributors.

The show has had much praise over the past years, and CCTV focus magazine had the privilege this year of attending. The show began with an absolutely amazing opening ceremony that not only had esteemed guests, but also a pyrotechnic show that until now has been unseen at any security trade show.

Soon after the amazing opening, floods of people began to pour into the well-sized exhibition hall, and from all over the centre sounds of deals being closed could be heard, as well as the wowing of many to the site of amazing new technologies being displayed for world firsts.

The great interest shown for our magazine proved that quality publications have no language or continent barriers.

Judging by the feedback received at and after the show CCTV focus proved, once again, that international co-operation and exchange of knowledge and information in CCTV is possible and well accepted.

We would like to officially acknowledge the excellent organisation by the SecuTech 2001 people and thank the very many visitors to our stand. We invite all visitors that didn't manage to get a complimentary copy to get in touch with us and we will organise this to be mailed to them. [ ] [ ] [ ]
